We Honour Them

With heavy hearts they say goodbye
To loved ones who would weep and cry

Off to the unknown, they travel together
Through tough conditions and horrid weather

They face the enemy with bravery and pride
Hoping to be part of the winning side

Fighting shoulder to shoulder with their brothers
They develop a bond like no other

Into the dark to the trenches they marched
On to the firing step they arched

Determined to help they went over the top
Into no man's land they fought, not to stop

Until they were finished their mission
They would not rest no matter the condition

Many lives lost protecting our nation
We will remember them with great appreciation

November eleventh every year
We wear a poppy to make it clear
